DOCTORS OF BASEBALL

Experience counts. When a St. Louis Cardinals player is injured, the goal is to return him to health and the field quickly and safely. Only the most highly skilled medical professional will do.

That's why the Cardinals, in affiliation with Mercy, asked sports medicine specialist Dr. George Paletta to return as the team's Head Orthopedic Surgeon. Highly respected throughout Major League Baseball, Dr. Paletta leads the A-team of "surgeons of choice" for the Cardinals. They include returning Assistant Team Orthopedist Dr. Lyndon Gross and Hand Consultant Dr. David Brown. Recognition of their superior skills cemented their return. Also joining the team are Assistant Team Orthopedists Dr. Husam Nawas and Dr. Julienne Lippe, and Foot and Ankle Consultant Dr. Mahesh Bagwe.

Choose the medical professionals the pros choose. The Cardinals' orthopedic surgery team will provide you the same major league treatment for your sports medicine, knee, shoulder, elbow, hand, foot and ankle injuries.
